Says Boosters Need Oraters.

1. A. Martin, of The Herald, said that what the trude boosters needed was a number of eloquout oraters to make talks during the trude exception. He said that Charles Brann cently heard Adolph Schwartz, of the Popular Dry Goods company, delivering an oration on the top floor of the Popular building rehearsing a speech which he will deliver before the Arizona legislature.

Schwartz Urges Truthful Ads. Mr. Brann then iminted Mr. Schwartz, much to the lunchers amusement. Mr. Schwartz responded by saying that whatever Mr. Brann had said was true. He urged upon the El Pasouns who will go on the trade exercision the meetiness of truthful advertising. He suggested a banner reading "El Paso Does What It Advertises"

Praises Chamber of Commerce.

Robert Krakauer spoke briefly of the coming trade excursion. He paid a tribute to the business men who compage the chamber of commerce. He said the chamber of commerce has done more than any other organization to apbuild the city. He arged the business men who are not already members, to join the organization.

"A membership campaign has been stated," he said, "by the chamber of commerce for 1000 members. The organization in a city of 15,000 should have 2000 members. Every Fusiness man and workman who makes 125 2 meek or more should join.

"The trade excursion should be well attended. The equipment will be the best that ever left El Paso. Sunday will be spent at Grand Canyon. This rip is along worth the price of the coursion."

Mr. Krakawer then read setter from Malcolm Fraser, former secretary of the chamber of commerce, now secretary to governor Campbell of Arizona, stating the governor would personally welcome the El Pasoans during their visit to the capital city.

V. R. Stiles spoke briefly of the comping trade excursion, saying that every business, bear to fit case was interested in the trade territory through

Would you see a cat? Are you one, if the mirror only told true? When any one—most specially a man-says some kind thing of another girl or woman, are you the girl who cannot let the prefty thing be—but must pounce on it and pinch out its will o' the wisp life! For a nice thing said of a woman is a delicate thing - and lifts its head shyly. All the unkind things grow like scratchy, hardy weeds, and spread through all the by-ways of the world for every one to see. You must remember that. That all the loveliest, most-needed things are trague and easy to lose or kill. That the coarse, rough things that we do not sigh after spring alive quickly, and are as hard to stamp out as Trouble's shadow. And anyone knows want a robust companion be is. Pinching to death the brave little leaves of a gracious word said to snother is only a habit, one of those things you catch when you live too long on a boarding house veranda with nothing to do; so the next time some one who is striding along with you says a splendid thing about some one else who is not there, even if you don't believe it, remember that all the mirrors instite world might suddenly begin to get back the image of the thing you are most like—and don't be what is called a "cat!" Wellesley Girls Tell What Clothes Cost

Boston, Mars., March 14.—Statistics gathered to show how much the girls at Wellesley college spend a year, aside from their tuition and tourd, reveal acceral interesting features. By classes the juniors have the highest average, $196.27, for expenditures on clothes, amusements and travel for the first semester. The maximum for clothes reached the sum of $1650, while the mitimum is $10. The freshman class shows the lowest figures on average outlay for pleasures, $1.57, and both this and the junior class demonstrated that certain of their members could do without spending a cent.
